

As part of a grant funded project on Festivals, Events and Inclusive Public Spaces, we have funding for a Post-Doctoral Research Fellow working with me here at the University of Westminster in London. See details below.

The Research Fellow will work on the London based part of this European project entitled: Festivals, events and inclusive parks.

Applicants should have a completed PhD and knowledge of either parks/public space management or festivals/events management.

We would also like to invite you all to the launch of the wider project (which involves five different institutions in Scotland, England, Ireland, Spain and Sweden) - at the University of the West of Scotland in June. This is a free day long symposium open to all.

See details and joining instructions via the link below.
