Liveable Cities Rankings: How a Global Enterprise is Influencing Urban Change

Every year, the world's most "liveable" cities are celebrated, in city rankings published by Mercer, the Economist Intelligence Unit, and Monocle Magazine. Global institutions including UN Habitat and the OECD are also joining consultancies, media organisations and think tanks, in the quest to compare living standards and well-being in cities

International Conference on Climate Change and Cities – Proceedings document

The Cities and Climate Change Science Conference (co-sponsored by Cities Alliance, C-40, Future Earth, ICLEI, Local Governments for Sustainability, SDSN, UCLG, UN-Habitat, UNEnvironment and WCRP) took place in Edmonton, Canada in March 2018. It brought together practitioners, policy makers and scientists to develop a global research agenda for “advancing the science we need for the cities we want”. The Conference sought to inform about the state of knowledge today, and potential key areas for future research in the field of cities and climate change. It was set to work towards the promotion and the implementation of a global research agenda on cities and climate change. With the Paris Agreement as a fundamental foundation, city-level and local actions were at the center of the considerations...Read more
