

"The only fence against the world is a thorough knowledge of it."

--John Locke

Dear Colleague:

As a scholar in architecture, urban planning, landscape architecture or related fields, we thought you might be interested to receive the attached two tables of contents from recent issues of the Journal of Architectural and Planning Research (JAPR).

For over twenty-five now, the Journal of Architectural and Planning Research has been an award-winning, scholarly, quarterly (double-blind, refereed) journal providing researchers and practicing professionals with up-to-date, innovative ideas and designs. JAPR includes subscribers and authors from around the world, and is the only fully blind refereed research journal affiliated with the AIA and the Royal Institute of British Architects. JAPR provides a link between theory and practice, focusing on areas including:

- * Architectural and design research,
- * Urban planning research,
- * Architectural design, interior design, and urban design.

Do you want more information? Check out our web site www.lockescience.com, for information on subscription pricing and instructions on how to subscribe.

JAPR is always, of course, looking for excellent manuscripts to consider for publication. At this time we have an additional interest in receiving manuscripts that link topics concerning sustainability to the other topics of JAPR. JAPR is also always interested in excellent quantitative research as well as excellent qualitative research.

Original manuscripts and book reviews are published in JAPR only after careful review by members of our international board of editors. We work very hard at JAPR to bring authors' and reviewers' comments together to aid in the manuscript review and revision process.

If you have any questions, feel free to contact us.

Email to: CustomerCare@LockeScience.com for information regarding subscriptions.

Email to: JAPR@LockeScience.Com for information regarding manuscript submissions.

You can also check our web site <http://www.lockescience.com>, for other sample articles, table of contents, information about the Journal and its editors, and instructions for submitting manuscripts.

We look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,

Andrew D. Seidel
Editor-in-Chief, Journal of Architectural and Planning Research
Professor, Texas A&M University