

RESURBE III
INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE ON URBAN RESILIENCE
 Empowering Local Communities for Local Action
 February 16 - 20, 2016, UNAM, Mexico DF

CALL FOR ABSTRACTS

The RESURBE program aims to share knowledge sharing and support dialogue among key stakeholders in the processes of urban resilience transition, informing policy making for urban resilience and adaptation to climate change. The RESURBE III conference focuses on participatory community development for urban resilience.

The RESURBE III conference is principally welcoming contributions on real cases and best practices on urban resilience and resilience transition worldwide; able to clearly define the potential for replication and upscaling. We invite authors to submit their abstracts on real cases and best practices around the world within the thematic areas listed below:

1. Risk management, adaptation and resilience
2. Methodologies and tools for resilience and systemic eco-innovation.
3. Process design and strategic urban/regional planning.
4. Intangible heritage and appropriate technologies.
5. Circular economy and urban metabolism.
6. Participatory processes, co-design and co-evolution.
7. Climate change and healthy cities.

PEER REVIEW AND PUBLICATION

We invite authors to prepare and submit abstracts by 23rd January 2016 (Extended Call!!) via our conference website: www.resurbe3.com. All submitted contributions (abstracts and full articles) will be peer reviewed.

After the acceptance of the abstract, we will request the authors to submit a full article for publication, to be included in the book of proceedings. All submissions must be original and unpublished.

After the Conference, the scientific team of the Conference will select the articles to be developed for peer review and for potential publication within the volumes of the book series "Resilience Cities: Rethinking Urban Transformation" (Springer). Interested authors will be invited to join RESURBE Program working groups.

LANGUAGE

The official Language of RESURBE is English. All abstracts, posters and articles must be submitted in English. We will consider arranging one dedicated parallel session, for oral presentations, in Spanish.
