CALL: Action-Research Internship with cLIMA sin Riesgo

by Teresa Belkow

Master in Environment and Sustainable Development from the Development Planning Unit (DPU), University College London (UCL)

This call, within the framework of the project 'cLIMAsinRiesgo - Disrupting urban 'risk traps': bridging finance and knowledge for climate resilient infrastructural planning in Lima' and the Master in Environment and Sustainable Development of the DPU-UCL, are looking to incorporate 10 interns into the field work phase of its 2016/2017 Masters students in Lima. After four consecutive years of field work in Lima, this years students will develop the project called: "Exploring innovative projects to disrupt urban risk traps for a just and resilient future", contributing to a better understanding of the capacities to act in order to confront environmental risks and impulse transformative urban change by exploring five strategic topics: urban agriculture, historical centres, water and sanitation, housing and ecological infrastructure.

The internship implies partaking in at least five field visits between the 24th of April and 6th of May, six (half day) visits to explore innovative projects in Lima before the students arrival on the 22nd of April and a few preparatory Skype meetings. Good language skills are a requirement where the applicant should be able to translate orally from English - Spanish and vice versa. Meals during working days will be reimbursed or covered for and the total remuneration is 1000 Peruvian soles.

All applications should include a letter of motivation no longer than one page, a CV and state preference of topic. Applications should be submitted no later than the 24th of February 2017 to Professor Adriana Allen (a.allen@ucl.ac.uk) whom will be able to answer any questions before the close of the call. The answers will be sent out on the 3rd of March 2017.
