Summary:

The Department of Landscape Architecture at the University of Sheffield is developing and internationalising its leadership, learning and teaching and research profiles through investment in key areas. As part of this round of investment we wish to recruit exceptional candidates for two Lecturer/Senior Lecturer posts in two key areas: Landscape Planning and Design Practice. Candidates will be expected to demonstrate specialism and expertise in one of these two areas. Appointment at Lecturer/Senior Lecturer level will be commensurate with your level of experience. The overview and person specification in the About The Job document are pitched at Senior Lecturer level- please see the University's Academic Career Pathways (<https://www.sheffield.ac.uk/hr/careerpathways/teachingandresearch>) for the expectations at Lecturer and Senior Lecturer level respectively. Early career applicants seeking appointment at lecturer level should demonstrate that they are on a trajectory that is likely to lead to the level of attainment described in the About The Job document.

Applicants in either specialism will need a PhD (or equivalent experience) in a relevant landscape architectural sub-discipline, or in a related discipline. You will be able to demonstrate ability and experience appropriate to your career stage in teaching and research as well as networking, knowledge exchange and impactful activity beyond the academy.

You will join an enthusiastic group of research and teaching staff and will have the drive and commitment to actively contribute to departmental administration and development and our teaching and research environments. You will contribute to research-led teaching across all areas of the School including UG, PGT and PGR programmes. You will have the strong interpersonal skills necessary to deliver an excellent student experience. Equality, Diversity and Inclusion and Decolonising the curriculum are ongoing departmental priorities and we expect the all staff to foreground this in every aspect of their work.

You will make a full and active contribution to the principles of the 'Sheffield Academic'. These include the achievement of excellence in applied teaching, research, and scholarly pursuits to make a genuine difference in the subject area and to the University's achievements as a whole. Further information on the underpinning values of the Sheffield Academic can be found at: <http://www.shef.ac.uk/hr/sheffieldacademic>.
