

Apply to the Masters in City Design (MCD) Degree

Enjoy the advantages of studying urban design in a great city like Chicago.

Earn a graduate degree in one year. Study with leading scholars and professional practitioners.

Learn how to design cities using spatial thinking and design knowledge across scale.

Interdisciplinary hands-on city-based design studios providing immersive exposure in complex urban places across Chicago.

Located in the heart of Chicago, UIC is one of the country's leading urban-serving universities, with an explicit commitment to creating and promoting great cities.

Admissions

Open to domestic and international students with bachelor degrees in architecture, landscape architecture, urban studies, urban planning and related disciplines.

Fall admissions only. Portfolio-based admissions considered on individual basis. Financial aid in form of scholarships available for select high-quality applicants from the US and abroad.

Don't miss out; apply soon!

Celebrating more than 45 years of scholarly accomplishments, the Department of Urban Planning and Policy houses the largest Urban Planning Program in North America, both in terms of student enrollment and number of alumni over the last decade, per 2017 edition of Planetizen.

The department also offers an undergraduate degree in Urban Studies as well as Master and Doctorate in Urban Planning and Policy.

For more information: cuppa.uic.edu/academics/upp/upp-programs

URBAN PLANNING
AND POLICY
COLLEGE OF URBAN PLANNING AND PUBLIC AFFAIRS

