

You are cordially invited to submit a manuscript to the American Journal of Climate Change , published by Scientific Research Publishing (SCIRP). It is an international, specialized and peer-reviewed open access journal devoted to publication of original contributions in relevant areas.

Being an open access journal we offer the following advantages:

- Researchers around the world have full access to all the published articles
- Widest dissemination of your published work ensuring greater visibility
- Free downloads of the published articles without any subscription fee

The journal of AJCC has a distinguished editorial board ensuring that it maintains high scientific standards with a broad international coverage. To view a list of the journal's editors please visit www.scirp.org/journal/ajcc.

Aims & Scope of the journal include:

- Advanced Statistical Tools and Methods in Climate Change
- Air Pollution and Climate Change
- Atmospheric and Marine Sciences
- Boundary-Layer Meteorology
- Climate and Earth System Modeling
- Climate Change Economics
- Climate Dynamics
- Climate Policy
- Earth Observation and Data Assimilation
- Environmental and Resource Science
