This academic year, the Centre for Urban Studies launches a call for a visiting scholar award. The aim of this award is to institute a visiting scholar program, going beyond the existing formats supporting short visits for participation in public lectures, PhD-workshops, and/or research seminars (which will remain a possibility).

The program awards once a year to one scholar funding for a stay of 6 weeks to 3 months, with an indicative budget of 5,000 to 10,000 euros covering travel and living expenses. This funding will be competitively awarded based on an application detailing the contribution to be made during the visit, and the CV of the applicant. Therefore, applications should include proposals for a visiting scholar that clearly provides something substantial and additional.
