Cities Of The Future: The Ultimate Design Challenge

With two-thirds of people expected to live in cities by 2050 and with urban areas accounting for 70 per cent of the emissions that are propelling the planet into a climate unknown, the challenge is both clear and urgent: cities must be reimaged.

UN-Habitat Thematic Guide Addressing The Most Vulnerable First: Pro-poor Climate Action in Informal Settlements

This Thematic Guide is intended to be the first of a series of resources for those with an interest in the opportunities for building resilience and addressing the challenges of informality hand-in-hand. This Thematic Guide is aimed at national and municipal government officials and civil society leaders in low- and middle-income countries. It will encourage them to make and implement policies and plans that tackle the challenges of climate change and development in informal settlements, in ways that are mutually supportive and that generate co-benefits wherever possible.
